Christmas Thoughts; Handel's Messiah An Inspiration

FROM BILL LYONS of Southern Illinois University Information Service comes this nice letter of Christmas:

"As the story of the birth of Christ is being read again this week in churches and homes throughout the world, another that might well be read again is the Parable of the Good Samaritan.

"The priest and the Levite in this story may have been thinking of themselves as members of an exclusive religious group, a class in which the injured man did not 'belong,' while the Samaritan simply considered himself as a human being, a class in which the unfortunate traveler did 'belong.'"

"Do you and I think of ourselves primarily as craftsmen or professional or business men, or do we think first of ourselves as having a common bond with all people?"

"This is far from being a new thought, but it is worth considering at Christmastime and with the beginning of another new year."

AND A NOVEL LETTER of Christmas comes from Uncle Hank, who is chairman of the board of Sahara Coal Co. Hank is dressed up like Santa Claus and his message is dated from the Far North.

After saying he always has believed that one should go to the places where the weather is generated to find out what's in store, he informs us that they tell him up there that it's going to be a cold, cold winter, that everybody should stock up their coal bins with you know what.

MOST OF US have heard Handel's The Messiah sung.

Handel's The Messiah, Sunshine Magazine reports, has been an inspiration down the centuries as an interpreter of peace and good will on earth. Sunshine continues:

"George Frederick Handel lived to see his Oratorio, The Messiah, become a cherished tradition. He had composed it in almost a frenzy of inspiration in 21 days, while his eyesight was failing and the threat of the debtor's prison hung over him.

"The Messiah was first given in Dublin, Ireland, in 1742, but not until after 1750, when it was performed at the Foundling Hospital in London, did it become truly popular. Since then performances have raised for benevolent causes, in Britain alone, more than $10,000,000.

"It has expressed as no other work the spirit of resurrection and the essence of brotherly love and Christian charity. It was the last work Handel performed at Covent Garden before his death in 1759. As such, it was, in a sense, Handel's last will and testament to posterity. It was a noble bequest to mankind.

"A native of Halle, Germany, Handel had become a naturalized English citizen in 1726. Though urged to study law, he had an insatiable desire for music.

"He was an organist and composer in his native city, and studied music for three years in Italy, where he kept on writing operas. But his rhythms seemed naturally attuned to the worlds of Scripture, and he excelled in a series of oratorios.

"The Messiah has set to music imperishably many of the noblest sayings in the Bible. They were called by Handel's friend, Charles Jennens. The greater part of the Messiah's sojourn upon earth is passed over in this masterpiece of harmony. But the inspiring humanitarian truths for which he lived and gave his life are exalted by Handel's musical genius: 'Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.'"

Landscape Scene Completed After Heart Attack

President and Mrs. Eisenhower Hold Annual Reception

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today gave members of his staff for Christmas copies of a mountain landscape which he started before and completed after his heart attack last fall.

The President allowed the annual White House Christmas party and pleasant musings about his new granddaughter to interrupt the business of state for a while.

The painting was started a week before Mr. Eisenhower suffered a heart attack Sept. 24. He completed it while he was recuperating in Fitzsimons Army Hospital in Denver. It is a winter scene of a mountain stream in the Colorado Rockies.

Each copy was in a large white envelope accompanied by the small personal Christmas card of Mr. and Mrs. Eisenhower. The gifts were presented to about 700 members of the White House staff, the White House Secret Service detail, members of the White House police force, and the reporters and photographers who regularly cover the President.

Painted Winter Scene

Mr. Eisenhower and his wife held their customary Christmas reception for the staff, police, and secret servicemen in the East Room of the White House.

The painting shows St. Louis Creek in winter with Byers Peak in the background. The foreground is part of Byers Peak ranch at Fraser, Colo., where Mr. Eisenhower visits and fishes in the summer with Aksel Nielsen, Denver mortgage banker.

In the afternoon today the President planned to meet with the National Security Council to discuss defense and foreign problems.

As for his future plans, Mr. Eisenhower apparently is not going to take as soon as originally thought that trip to the South for exercise in the sun which his doctors have ordered.

Originally it was indicated Mr. Eisenhower would make the trip shortly after Christmas. But apparently he will remain in Washington until after the opening of Congress next month and possibly delay the trip until spring.

Woman Ill with Cancer Charged With Bank Theft

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A 45-year-old woman, seriously ill with cancer, today faced charges of embezzling $175,856 from the Union State Bank of Windfall, Ind., during the past 20 years.

Mrs. Genevieve Campbell was freed under $2,000 bond following her arrest late Wednesday. She had been employed at the bank since 1928 as an assistant cashier and was in charge of the savings department.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Dan Tabbert said that because of her illness, special arrangements would be made for a hearing before U. S. Commissioner Lawrence Turner Jr.

Mrs. Campbell's painstaking juggling of the bank books enabled the embezzlement to go undiscovered despite frequent audits by bank examiners, according to authorities. The shortage was uncovered last June when Mrs. Campbell was hospitalized.

Tabbert said Mrs. Campbell's father, Dan P. Wright, Windfall, made full restitution to the bank after inheriting a large estate from his sister.

Mrs. Campbell signed a statement for the FBI admitting the embezzlements, Tabbert said. The attorney said she admitted spending the money to build a $50,000 home for herself and her husband, Virgil, a Kokomo factory worker, and to pay debts for her relatives.

Young Forester Admits Strangling Wife Who Rejected Morning Romance

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Authorities charged a young husband today with strangling his attractive wife because she refused to make love with him after breakfast.

Darrel Parker, Lincoln's 24-year-old city forester, confessed Wednesday night that he murdered his 22-year-old wife, Nancy, on Dec. 14. Authorities did not release his signed confession. But they quoted Parker as saying he flew into a rage and killed his young wife because she "was cold" and refused his advances after they had shared breakfast on the day of the murder.

Parker tied and gagged his wife's body and ripped the clothing from it in a deliberate attempt to make police think she was the victim of a rapist, County Atty. Elmer Scheele said.

Consolated Victims Parents

He then went off to work, returning to his cottage home at noon and telephoning police that he had discovered his wife's near-nude body.

In the week that followed, Parker acted the part of a grief-stricken widower. He attended his wife's funeral and was at Des Moines, Iowa, Wednesday consoling his wife's parents when authorities asked him to return to Lincoln.

He was given a lie detector test and then confessed, authorities said.

Scheele revealed that Parker had been under constant suspicion and was closely watched, even though he was allowed to leave the state. Police had indicated they believed a sex maniac was responsible for the "really vicious" killing.

Strangled With Rope

Scheele said Parker admitted he strangled his wife to the floor when she rejected romance on the morning of Dec. 14.

He then twisted a rope around her neck and strangled her, Scheele said.

Calmly setting the stage for police, Parker twisted his dead wife's hands behind her back and tied them. He stuffed two handkerchiefs in her mouth, threw her body on a bed, and ripped her sweatshirt.

Parker was calm and unemotional when he was booked on murder charges following his confession. He stared blankly ahead and answered questions in a quiet, matter-of-fact voice.

Parker and his wife met when they were both students at Iowa State College and had been married only 1 1/2 years.

Mrs. Robert Morrison, mother of the murdered wife, said she was "stunned" when told by United Press of her son-in-law's confession.

"It's terrible. He just left this morning," she said.

Find C45, Three Missing Airmen

DULUTH, Minn. (AP)—The Royal Canadian Air Force notified the Air Force here today that it had found a missing C45 American Air Force plane near Graham, Ont., and all three men aboard were alive.

The RCAF said it found the craft 7 1/2 miles west of Graham, near the Minnesota-Ontario border north of Port Arthur, Canada. It did not say whether the plane had crashed or landed safely.

The plane had been missing since late Wednesday on a flight from a U. S. radar station at Sioux Lookout in Ontario to Minneapolis.

The three officers aboard were returning to their Air Force units in the Twin Cities after a routine supply mission.

Ex-Mental Patient Kills Two, Burns Herself to Death

ATLANTIC, Iowa (AP)—A former mental patient shot her brother and sister to death while they were sleeping in their farm home and then burned herself to death.

Police said 26-year-old Mary Emma Hansen turned herself into a blazing torch with kerosene after she killed Louis P. Hansen, 23, and Arlene L. Hansen, 27, Wednesday.

Only Mary and the two victims were in the house at the time of the shootings. The father, John L. Hansen, was working in the fields and the mother was away.

Lausche to Run For Senate; Jolt to Ohio GOP

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican hopes of regaining control of the Senate were jolted today by news from Ohio that offset a recent jolt Democratic hopes received from Nevada.

The bad news for the Republicans came in Wednesday night's announcement that Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio will run next year for the Senate seat now held by Sen. George H. Bender.

Although party regulars view Lausche as a maverick, he has been the greatest Democratic vote getter in Ohio in many years.

He easily won reelection to the governorship in 1952 while President Eisenhower carried the state by 500,000. Bender won his senate seat by a margin of about 6,000 votes in 1954 to serve the final two years of the term of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft.

Despite Bender's victory, the Democrats in 1954 recaptured control of the Senate by the narrow margin of 49 to 47.

Although control of Congress usually goes to the party winning the presidency, the GOP can act on no such assumption in 1956. Most of the Democratic seats at stake next year are in "safe" Democratic states. The Republicans have proportionately more seats at stake in the closely-divided states than the Democrats.

The Democrats suffered a similar blow recently when Sen. Alan Bible (D-Nev.) announced he would not seek reelection next year. He was considered a strong candidate in a state where the GOP has shown increased strength in the last decade.

Bender responded to Lausche's announcement by citing his record of support for the Eisenhower administration.

Wife Seeks to Cash $75,000 Check Written by Male as Joke 10 Years Ago

NEW YORK (AP) — "Merriment and jesting" prevailed 10 years ago Christmas Day when Albert B. Zink, a Philadelphia lawyer, made out a $75,000 check to his wife and dated it Dec. 25, 1955.

But Mrs. Zink didn't think it was a joke at all. Zink, now 50, told Manhattan Supreme Court Wednesday. She saved the check and now she wants to cash it.

Zink, who didn't have anything like $75,000 10 years ago but has done better since, asked the court to restrain his wife from cashing the check when it becomes good. He said she is suing him for separate maintenance.

The attorney gave his wife, Mrs. Maude Lennox Zink, "several expensive gifts" that Christmas 10 years ago, he said, and then "I told her I was sorry that I was unable to give her more elaborate presents."

But, "in the merriment and jesting which prevailed," he said, "I wrote out a check for $75,000 for her order and dated it Christmas Day 10 years later, Dec. 25, 1955. I told her I only wished that I could give her a gift like that."

Later that day Zink said he looked for the check but couldn't find it. His wife told him that she had torn it to bits and flushed it down a toilet bowl, he said, and that was why he was "shocked and incredulous" in 1953 when an attorney approached him with a photostat of the check and an offer of a $50,000 settlement.

He asked her about it and she told him she had kept the check as a "sentimental keepsake," Zink said. Mrs. Zink now lives in New York.

A hearing on Zink's request for the restraining order was set for Jan. 3.

Stevenson's Son Removed to Chicago Hospital

Will Undergo Surgery Following Crash Fatal To Two Companions

GOSHEN, Ind. (AP)—An ambulance today carried Adlai E. Stevenson and his youngest son homeward where the youth will undergo surgery in the aftermath of a traffic crash which killed two college companions.

The presidential candidate comforted his son on the 100-mile trip to a Chicago hospital where 19-year-old John Fell Stevenson's shattered knee cap will be repaired by a bone specialist.

His condition was described by hospital officials as "good."

An Elkhart Superior Court grand jury, meanwhile, returned a two-count indictment against a truck driver blamed for the head-on crash.

The indictment charged Fred Gill, 29, Detroit, with involuntary manslaughter and reckless homicide. His arraignment was scheduled for this afternoon.

The truck driver, 29-year-old Fred Gill of Detroit, was held without charge pending the Elkhart county grand jury action. Indiana state police quoted him as saying "it was my fault."

Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic candidate for president and an avowed candidate for his party's presidential nomination next year, stayed in Goshen overnight to be near his stricken son.

The Democratic leader flew to Goshen from Chicago in a chartered plane after the crash near Goshen Wednesday. He spent two hours at the bedside of his son, 19-year-old John Fell Stevenson, and then issued a statement saying he was "heartbroken" over the deaths of the two other youths.

Stevenson was in his office Wednesday when his son, John, an Army major, telephoned him the good news from the hospital. Later he and Mrs. Stevenson drove to the hospital to congratulate Barbara and take their first look at the new grandchild.

After a 35-minute visit, Mrs. Stevenson emerged and told reporters the child's name. Asked the color of the baby's eyes, Mrs. Stevenson said laughingly, "I don't know, but her hair is quite blonde."

The President said nothing but grinned broadly as he escorted his wife back to their limousine.

Mr. Eisenhower had said he hoped the baby would arrive in time to be a Christmas present.

Mary Jean technically missed joining a select group of persons born in the White House itself by about five miles—the distance between the executive mansion and the Army hospital.

The only child of a President actually born in the White House was Esther Cleveland, born during Grover Cleveland's second administration.

ICC Orders Carriers To End Segregation In Intrastate Travel

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Public passenger carriers today were under Illinois Commerce Commission orders to cease immediately segregation in intrastate travel.

The commission issued the order Wednesday. While its jurisdiction covers only intrastate travel, carriers are under orders from the Interstate Commerce Commission to halt interstate segregation by Jan. 10.

The ICC did not name any carriers but several years ago a formal complaint was brought against the Illinois Central Railroad for alleged passenger segregation. The State Supreme Court decided the complaint was an interstate matter.

The blaze apparently started in the Rechter Brothers department store, spreading through a fire wall to the Yuill music store and then into Sohn's clothing store.

When firemen arrived at 5:15 a. m., the department store had collapsed. They brought the fire under control about 3 1/2 hours later.

Most of the damage at Sohn's resulted from smoke and water.

Firemen evacuated residents of apartments in the block. Heat broke windows in the Liberty hotel, across an alley from the wrecked buildings, but the structure was not seriously damaged.

Herrin Fire Chief Carl Mayers said the fire apparently smoldered a long time and gained headway before it was discovered. He said it apparently started in the rear of Rechter's store.

Fire departments from Marion, West Frankfort, Zeigler, Colp, Benton and Carbondale sent aid. It was the third serious fire here this year.

No estimate of the loss was available immediately.

Mayers said he feared the loss would be heavy because the stores were filled with Christmas merchandise.

Railroaders Win Pay Boosts

CHICAGO (AP)—More than 26,000 railroad conductors and brakemen won a $1.15 a day wage boost today on the heels of a 14 1/2 cent an hour increase granted about 750,000 non-operating railroad employees.

The raise for 26,000 members of the Order of Railway Conductors and Brakemen was retroactive to Oct. 1.

It included a 10 1/2 cent an hour increase plus a 2 per cent differential adjustment. The two amount to $1.15 a day.

Four cents of the total is in lieu of a health and welfare plan, a railroad spokesman said.

The 14 1/2 cent increase won by non-operating employees Wednesday night was the same as recommended by a presidential emergency board Dec. 12, a railroad spokesman said. The wage boost was retroactive to Dec. 1.

The railroads also agreed to pay the cost of a hospital and medical benefit plan now in effect, up to $6.80 per month per employee. The railroads and employees will continue sharing the cost on a 50-50 basis as in the past until March 1, 1956, when the new payments go into effect, the rail spokesman said.

The non-operating employees include such workers as clerks, telegraphers and maintenance men who do not operate trains. Their original demands included a 25-cent-per-hour wage hike.

Railroad sources put the average hourly wage of non-operating at $1.81 before the latest increase. The railroads estimated the cost of the settlement will amount to about 300 million dollars.

Find First $10 Bill Of Greenlease Ransom

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "The FBI reported today that the first $10 bill from the Greenlease kidnap ransom money has been found in East Palestine, Ohio.

The FBI said the note was discovered by a bookkeeper of an auto firm located in the town between Cleveland and Pittsburgh.

All 83 bills which turned up earlier from the $303,702 ransom have been $20 denominations.

Period of Uncertainty

Editorial — By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Politicians as a breed are given to wishful thinking. Probably no harder wishing was ever done than the Republicans are engaged in right now as they await President Eisenhower's decision whether or not to run again.

It is in this light that the hopeful comments of Leonard Hall,
chairman of the Republican National Committee, must be viewed.
He thinks the President will try
for a second term "if he feels he is able."

But Hall is by nature an especially cheerful politician, given to reading bright promise in the signs
he finds about him. We must realize that is what he has done in this case.

Hall has not actually talked to Mr. Eisenhower about a second term. Indeed, by his own word
we know that the President said nothing that even indirectly could be taken as a cue to his intentions
for 1956.

What Hall is reporting are his impressions of Mr. Eisenhower's health, his mood and temper, and his interest in affairs political and otherwise. He finds that the President looks well, is eager for work,
and maintains a lively curiosity
about matters of national and world
concern.

On the other hand, he finds no
discouraging evidence, no signs
of physical strain, no wishful comment about settling down on his farm, and so on. Perhaps it was the absence of this negative evidence that more than anything convinced Hall he had real reason to hope.

In any event, we must understand that no positive cue has been given. We are still in the phase of uncertainty, where men can only give us their impressions of what the President might do. It is a phase that may last for many weeks to come.

A Strange Silence

When the United States exploded
a hydrogen bomb in mid-Pacific, vehement shouts of protest went up from many neutralist quarters
around the globe. It was an outrage, they said, and all further testing ought to be halted.

Our position in the matter was not helped by the fact that Japanese fishermen were operating on the fringes of the bomb danger zone and some were affected by the radioactive fall-out.

Now the Russians have exploded
a hydrogen device. Though not as large as ours, it has produced a considerable fall-out on Japan proper and has led to increased radio-
activity in the air over such European cities as Paris.

The question is: Where are the protests?
Japan has protested, true, but the neutralists have for the most part been discreetly silent. There is no wringing of hands over the unhappy circumstances of the Japanese who have been subjected to fall-out whose source was much closer than the American explosion.

Perhaps the glib neutralists accept the Russian contention that the Reds would not test such a weapon if we did not. By that reasoning, the whole thing once more would become our fault.

That's pretty thin stuff, since heretofore the Russians never have shown any disposition to limit either arms or arms tests in accord with what the rest of the world was doing.

It may be enough to satisfy the neutralists, however, for they don't need much encouragement to excuse the Russians and blame us.
It never occurs to them to acknowledge that we may have to test nuclear weapons because the Russians have an army big enough to outrun Europe if we did not pose
that huge threat.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-Go-ROUND By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
Land Where Christ Was Born
Still Resists His Teaching;
Eric Johnston Hopes For Agreement On Jordan River;
Arabs Bitter Against Jews.

WASHINGTON. — The man who has tried hardest to bring peace to that part of the world where Christ was born is Eric Johnston,
head of the Motion Pictures Producers and former president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

Today the area from which the modern world gets its great spiritual leadership is a long way from the goal of "peace on earth, good will to men" announced by the angels when Christ was born 2,000 years ago. But it's not for lack of trying by the indefatigable, un-discouraged ambassador we have sent to work out a plan for the joint use of the river Jordan by Israel, Lebanon, Syria and Jordan.

Despite the discouraging news
from the Near East, Johnston may not be too far from success. When last in Cairo, the nine Arab states
head together to discuss Johnston's final proposals on joint cooperation with Israel over the river
Jordan, Premier Nasser of Egypt,
who attended the meeting, finally came out to tell Johnston:

"Give these people time," he said. "There will be an agreement, but it takes time. Some of them have new governments at home and we have to give them
time to get settled."

He referred to the fact that the government of Lebanon had then been in office only four days and the government of Syria only eight days.

Premier Nasser was probably too optimistic. But when you consider that California and Arizona,
two relatively peaceful states,
have been squabbling over water
from the Colorado river for 20 years, you can concur with Premier Nasser that the Arab-Israeli group needs more time to get together with Israel.

THE FOUR PROBLEMS
A TVA for the river Jordan, of course, will not solve the problem of Israeli-Arab bitterness, but it will help. It may even go a long way. Today there are four main problems causing friction. One is the division of Jordan irrigation water. Another is Arab refugees, about 800,000 of them—expelled
from Israel. If the river Jordan irrigation project is put through,
however, about one-third of these refugees could settle on irrigated land.

The second problem is the undefined borders between Israel and its neighbors, while the final problem is who shall hold the city of Jerusalem. This is sacred not only to Christians because of its identification with the life of Christ, but to Jews because of Abraham, and to Mohammedans because the rock
from which Mohammed rose on a white horse is in Jerusalem.

Jews, Mohammedans, and the Vatican all want control of the old city of Jerusalem, and this may be a tougher problem to solve than almost any other.

ARAB BITTERNESS
How bitter Arab feeling is against the Jews was illustrated
when Eric Johnston took a member of the Syrian cabinet up on a hill overlooking the valley of Yar-mouk. The sun was just setting and below them the Jordan river washed its eroding way down the valley, unharnessed and just as useless as it had been for centuries.

"You see that valley," Johnston
told the Syrian cabinet minister.
"You see how fertile and beautiful
it would become if the waters of that river were spread out over the plain. I ask you to use your influence in getting about this great irrigation project."

Suddenly the Syrian's face confused in hatred.
"Mr. Ambassador," he raged,
speaking in perfect Oxford English, "you ask me to do that! You ask me to associate with those people! You ask me to have my children live with them in peace!
They cheat, they steal, they lie!
You ask me to do that! No, I cannot do it."

"Look here, Mr. Minister," soothed Johnston, "you have two fine boys. Do you want them to think of you as passing up this great opportunity to build for peace and help the future of your country? You would not want them to think of you in that way."

Finally, the Syrian agreed.
DULLES VACILLATES
Basic trouble in the Israeli-Arab dispute is that the United States has vacillated. We have had no firm policy, and as with things in the State Department these days, John Foster Dulles wants to handle it himself. He can't delegate.

Also the State Department is split. Some diplomats, influenced by the oil companies, still consider Israel a temporary country. They have got to get down to brass
tacks and realize that Israel is here to stay.

Until the State Department
makes up its own mind and then takes a firm policy, there will be no leadership and no peace in the land where Christ gave us the cherished goal of peace.

WASHINGTON PIPELINE
Correction — In recently reporting that "the office" of assistant to work on the Israeli-Arab dispute, Arab newspapers said his real name was "Goldstein" and showed cartoons of him with a hooked nose. The Israeli were also suspicious. Now both sides trust him, begged him not to give up the job. Congratulations to Louis Marx, toy manufacturer,

for getting the patriotic motif into his toys. Last year he featured a model of the White House, this year a model of the Capitol building. As a result, thousands of youngsters have had a chance to build the White House and the Capitol. Marx named his children after Eisenhower, Gen. Generally Marshall, and Gen. Omar Bradley. Sen. Bill Knowland of California is probably the youngest grandfather in the Senate. At the age of 47, he has three granddaughters. Bill hasn't aged much during the grueling years in Washington. He looks about 40.

BY ROBERT CARSE

THE STORY: Capt. Jered Naish,
a new hand at whaling, sails toward the South Atlantic with a motley crew and brutal officers.
He has yet to prove his worth as a master of a whaling ship.

Naish drummed his fingers on the table. He closed and idly opened and closed the journal. The ship present aspect was a prison. He could identify by their snores or the tossing of their sweaty bodies
Mr. Cupp and Mr. Bothwick, and Blagen, Alfie, who had a slight nasal drip and made a snuffling breath approximately every other while, Larned, Tatem, Diego, Kitchen, Oliphant and Titcomb.

The carpenter, he recalled, bore
the full name of Nebuchadnezzar Oliphant. It was a religious name,
one from the Bible. Nebuchadnezzar, he had been taught at school, had been King of Babylon.

It was folksy, he had carried the Jewish people into captivity. But Oliphant came from Halbut Point on Cape Ann. Both he and the cooper were from the Cape.
Titcomb was out of Annisquam,
although originally his folks had lived on the Isle of Shoals. When he was vexed with him, Oliphant accused the cooper of being a
"moon-curse" and that made Titcomb angry. It was the term for a wrecker, and meant that Titcomb's folks had made their living from sunken ships. There had been more than a little wrecking done on the Isle of Shoals.

He knew that behind his back
the fo'c'sle gang now called Mr.
Cupp "Hungry-Hungry" because of the mate's Arctic experience. Mr.
Finnie's wife, Rachel, was supposed to be unfaithful to him with a snuff-grinder from Lynn.

Checkers, the cook, a Pequot Indian from Stonington, had killed
a man in a sealer once off the Chilean coast and been tried and acquitted in Valparaiso on grounds of self-defense. Blagen stood in quiet fear of him; he never entered the galley unies at definite invitation. But since they had been aboard together, the steward hadn't done much to corrupt Alfie. The boy had been previously educated.

Last week, Mr. Cupp had caught him in the forward lazarette smoking tobacco stolen from Larned in a pipe that belonged to Diego. His explanation was that he had been hiding from his uncle's wrath after he had found him stealing sugar
out of ship's stores which he insisted Blagen hoped to sell at a great profit in some port. Mr.
Cupp had been so impressed by the story that he had almost forgotten
to use his belt end on Alfie.

Up on deck, his sextant in his hand, he felt keen, certain of every gesture, all his perceptions acute.
When he and Mr. Bothwick had taken the observations and Both-wick had entered them on the log sheet, he turned to Mr. Cupp who at four o'clock must have moved past him in the cabin while he slept.

"Enough of this, mister," he said.
"All we've done on these courses
is gather Sargassos weed on our bottom. You've told me there's a chance of whale on the Brazil Banks."

"That's right, sir," Mr. Cupp
said. "But, mind ye, no guarantees. Whale are where you find em."

"I've learned as much," Naish said. "But head her around. Put her on a west-nor-west. From the cloud, we'll catch wind out of the sou'-east with the sun."

"West-nor-west it is, sir," Mr.
Cupp said. "Soon as there's wind,
I'll haul her."

Naish went below feeling oddly
at peace. He was very hungry,
and once he had worked his observations and plotted them and had his breakfast, he'd sleep. And the wind was coming aboard; on deck, the watches ran to get at the sheets and braces, bring the ship to the new course. Away, away Brazil. And let there be whale, plenty and aptly while for the old Blas with her seaward skirt.

It was, Mr. Cupp said, a fair-sized pod of right whale. They lay some six or seven miles distant
over the slowly heaving sea and swam in almost geometric alignment through the broad yellow field
of brit.

"Brit brings 'em," Mr. Cupp said, hoarse in his excitement. "They live on it. Shall I lower, sir?"
"Lower, sir, and I'll go aloft at once."

Cupp moved with supple speed toward his boat. Deigo was already in it, preparing to lower. The sailors on lookout at the three mastheads were still crying in the gullating fashion they had learned from the harpooners. "Thar she blows! Oh, blow-ows an' white waters!"

Alfie handed him a glass up thru the scuttle before he was on the second step. "Mr. Bothwick," he called as he ran forward to the mainmast, "back the main and hold her easy off the wind till I tell you different."

On the main topmast cross-
trees he slipped under the padded hoop
and braced himself and swung the glass on the pod. Five. No. six.
Big fish, too, and when they breathed the twin spouts were ardent white tufts that trembled yards
above the great gray hunch of the heads.

Astern of them, broad as a township lane, marvelously even, were
the spaces they had eaten through the brit.

Mr. Cupp, Mr. Wilson and Mr.
Finnie were sailing their boats into the brit. Their plan was to come upon the whales from behind. This was the safest way, because head-
on a beast of the size of those could see his enemy in time to sound, or use tail and flukes to smash a boat.

Annual Meeting Of IEA to Study Money Problems

CHICAGO (UP)—Money problems of Illinois schools will draw a big share of attention at the 102nd annual meeting of the Illinois Education Assn. here next week.

Delegates to the three-day meeting which opens Tuesday will be asked to endorse an increase in state spending for schools, and federal aid to education.

A resolution calling for an increase in the state distributive
fund, through which financial aid
to schools is funneled, was prepared by the IEA legislative committee.

It did not specify any figures,
but said the fund should be boosted

until the state's contribution "shall fully guarantee an adequate fund-
ation program."

Another resolution favors federal aid to schools, saying it "should be free from federal control and should supplement where needed
but not replace state and local support of education."

The IEA will be asked in another resolution to condemn "general
and irresponsible attacks" on schools by "front organizations."

SPRINGFIELD — State Republican Chairman Morton H. Hollingsworth said today the party may celebrate the centennial of the first state Republican convention in Bloomington, Ill., next May 29 as a "national event."

Hollingsworth said the scope of the celebration will depend on the facilities which can be provided by Bloomington and the 1956 presidential campaign situation.

Church home were Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Hines, LaVerne Hathaway and daughter, LaNelle.

The condition of Mrs. Kressa

Church remains about the same.

The Deborah class of the First Baptist church, taught by Mrs. Bob Burnett, held its annual Christmas party Monday evening at the home of Mrs. W. A. Hamby, which was beautifully decorated for the holiday season. The brightly lighted tree, flowering poinsettia and table decorations added to the festive spirit of the occasion.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Hamby, and prayer was offered by Mrs. R. Dale Wilson, assistant teacher. The class voted to give a donation for the Children's Christmas party at the First Baptist mission, and to supply some heavy winter clothing for some needy family.

Mrs. Robert Mugge, in charge of the program, presented Mrs. Floyd Lacy, who gave an inspiring devotion, "The Gifts of the Wise Men." A medley of Christmas carols was played by Susan Hamby, as a clarinet solo.

Games in the form of a Biblical quiz were played and Mrs. Bob Burnett and Mrs. Otho Josey were awarded prizes. Gifts were exchanged and "Santa Claus" presented a present to each member, as a gift from the teacher. The class, in turn, presented gifts to the teacher and assistant teacher.

Refreshments of ice cream with green Christmas tree center, fancy homemade cookies and coffee were served by the hostess committee, Mrs. George Johnson, Mrs. Marion Lane, Mrs. Robert Mugge, and Mrs. Hamby, to the following: Mrs. Sam Cole, Mrs. Ed Creek, Mrs. Bob Burnett, Mrs. Floyd Lacy, Mrs. Otho Josey, Mrs. Leland Armistead, Mrs. Louie Beltz and Mrs. R. Dale Wilson.

A Christmas birthday party was held Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Bill Ferrell.

Lovely decorations were in keeping with the Yuletide season. Refreshments of dainty open-face sandwiches and coffee were served. The party was held in honor of the birthdays of Mrs. Pavah Whiteside, Dick Carpenter, Mrs. Floyd Coffee and Mrs. Ferrell. A gift exchange was enjoyed.

Mrs. Adolph Smith returned home today after a return to the hospital for treatment for two days.

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Fletcher and daughter, Helen, Dexter, New Mex., and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Riegel, Jackson, Ohio, who have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Riegel, the past few days, have returned to their homes. They also visited other relatives and friends while here.

Charles E. Taylor, local Ford dealer and merchant, suffered a mild cerebral accident, without paralysis, Saturday, and will be confined to his home about three weeks. His condition was reported not critical.

Mrs. Alma Ritchey, who recently underwent surgery at Hazelcrest hospital, Hazelcrest, Ill., and has been critically ill, is slowly improving, according to word received by Harrisburg friends from her husband, Clarence (Dock) Ritchey. Their home address is 565 North Schuyler avenue, Kankakee, Ill.

Saline Encampment No. 178 will hold its regular meeting Friday at 7:30 p. m. All members please be present for patriarch degree. Rufus Whipple, C. P.

Leon Shaw, 33, and Oradell Kennedy, 19, both of Vienna.

Donald L. Sims, 25, and Lena Maynor, 23, both of Harrisburg.

Paul Edwin Gendron, 28, Thebes, and Carol Joyce McClendon, 23, Harrisburg.

Larry D. Stewart, 19, Elderado, and Myrna Jacobitz, 18, Chicago.

To Mr. and Mrs. Dee Rittenberry, Springfield, Ill., former residents of Harrisburg, a girl named Robin Dee, weighing seven pounds, two ounces, born Dec. 19 in the Springfield Memorial hospital.

The S. S. Kresge Co., from its main office in Detroit, announces that cash Christmas remembrances will be distributed to approximately 45,000 employees throughout the country, says C. H. Shingler, manager of the Kresge store in Harrisburg.

Approximately 32 Kresge men and women in Harrisburg will participate in the plan.

This is the thirty-fifth year that the Kresge Co. has paid cash remembrances to its employees at Christmas time. This year, 603 stores, as well as the company's offices and warehouse, will participate.

The schedule covers both full and part-time employees working on Dec. 24 who were hired before Dec. 1, and is arranged on the basis of length of service with the Kresge Co.

LONDON, Ky. — The case of five men charged in connection with an alleged $50,000 swindle of two Ohio industrialist brothers was expected to go to a Federal court jury here late today.

Defense attorneys presented final arguments before Judge H. Church Ford this morning, and Dist. Atty. Henry J. Cooke, Lexington, Ky., was scheduled to sum up the prosecution's arguments later today.

The five defendants are charged with using interstate telephone lines with intent to defraud. They are Simpson B. Cross and Glennie Joe Buchanan, both of Jackson, Miss.; George Henson, London, Ky., and Charles Paul Rothchild, a former Cairo, Ill., policeman.

The government attempted to prove during the lengthy trial that the five conspired to induce Ken-

The brothers testified they brought the money July 28, but claimed that they were given an envelope containing newspaper clippings the size of currency in a switch.

Cross, one of the defendants, testified that he contributed $10,000 to the scheme, as the announced rate of exchange was 60 cents on the dollar.

Winter arrived across the nation today, but its baggage of cold, wind, and snow was already old stuff to most Americans.

New England was deep in a sub-zero freeze, and endless, pounding rains threatened new floods in northern California and the Pacific Northwest.

An unseasonable "heat wave" in the Rockies and a warmup in the frost-bound East also dimmed the impressiveness of winter's debut.

Winter's official arrival time was exactly 9:12 a. m. CST, the moment the sun reached its southernmost point below the equator. From now on the days will get longer, even though the temperatures are likely to get even colder.

However, winter will have to unleash some of its frostiest blasts to beat such temperatures as today's 30 below zero at Missina, N. Y. It was warmer at Anchorage, Alaska, where the mercury stood at 14 above, than the 5 above at Boston, or the 11 at Buffalo, N. Y.

The Dead Sea, lowest spot on earth, is said to contain about two billion tons of potash, 22 billion tons of magnesium chloride, 980 million tons of bromide, and 11 billion tons of sodium chloride, or common salt.

Gen. Jose de San Martin received the name of "Hannibal of the Andes" because he came from his native Argentina with a body of troops, over the mountains, to help Chile win her independence.

George O. Davenports to Observe Golden Wedding On Christmas Eve

Christmas Eve will be a special event this year for Mr. and Mrs. George O. Davenport, as they will be observing their Golden Wedding anniversary.

Due to the Christmas season, they do not plan any special observance, but will celebrate the event along with other Christmas activities, and expect children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren, other relatives and friends to help them with the observance at their home at 317 East Walnut street in Harrisburg.

They were married on Christmas eve in 1905 at the home of Mrs. Davenport's parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Sam Barter, at the Barter home, which was then situated on West Poplar street in the block now occupied by the First Presbyterian church and business buildings.

They recall that, at that time, there were three residences occupying the block facing Poplar street—the John W. Towle residence to the east, the Barter residence in the center and the W. T. Skaggs residence on the present site of the church.

The Rev. J. H. Jones, pastor of the Methodist church performed the ceremony, with attendants being Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Murphy, brother-in-law and sister of the bride.

Mr. Davenport was then a hoisting engineer at the Davenport coal mine, between Harrisburg and Carrier Mills, which was later known as Saine No. 1 mine.

He soon afterward became interested in business with Mr. Murphy, became a stockholder in the Harrisburg State Savings bank, which had been founded in 1904 by his father, the late John Davenport, and in 1918 became cashier of the bank.

Mr. Davenport has continued in the banking business. His bank was consolidated in 1922 with what is now the Harrisburg National bank, and he is now president of that institution.

The Davenports have two daughters, Mrs. Harry R. Horning of Harrisburg and Mrs. Bernice Campbell of Downers Grove, Ill., and a foster daughter they have reared from childhood as their own—Mrs. Roscoe Peithman of Arcata, Calif. They have seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Refreshments were served to Mrs. Doug Ledbetter, Mrs. Lavene Cooper and daughter, Sheryl, Mrs. Paul Ledbetter, Mrs. Lawrence Logsdon, Mrs. Carl Tuttle, Mrs. Pat Shelton, Mrs. Jack Cox, Mrs. Pat Atkinson, Mrs. Kelly Pickering, Mrs. Louise Cogel, Mrs. Ruby Gullledge, Mrs. George Barker, Mrs. C. C. Lightner and sons, Joe and Jack.

Christmas carols were sung and topics given by the program chairman, Mrs. Henry Hancock, Mrs. Calvin Sutton, Mrs. Donald Hughes, Mrs. Pat Gilley, Miss Barbara Fearheiley, Mrs. George Aud and Mrs. Donald Boyd. Fess Parker Turns In His Coonskin Cap

HOLLYWOOD — Fess Parker has turned in his coonskin cap, officially buried his Davy Crockett character and admitted that the nationwide storm he caused is down to a slow drizzle.

A year ago Parker's furry top and shootin' iron launched the country's sub-sub-deb set on the biggest hero worship craze since Hopalong Cassidy. But even Parker confessed that by now the kids have left their coonskin caps to the moths.

Too much heat in too short a time," drawled the lanky actor. "But I'm grateful to old Davy. I only feel we should let him rest in peace—and give him back his cap."

The second of this year's two-part Crockett TV series was aired on the ABC-TV "Disneyland" program last week. Unless Disney reruns them in the spring, that's the last of Davy.

Parker meantime has left TV behind and gone on to star in a Disney cinemascopic color feature, "The Great Locomotive Chase."

In the Civil War story he was promoted to a fancy frock coat with black velvet piping and a gray wide-brimmed hat.

"My wardrobe will knock you out," grinned Parker. "Before I had a full beard but now I'm clean shaven. I still get killed in this movie, though. But in my next Disney picture, 'Westward Ho, The Wagons,' I live and I even get the woman."

Fess figures Davy Crockett's popularity faded because of other historical Westerns such as "Frontier" and "Wyatt Earp" on TV this season. To confirm the demise of Davy, the actor is sending back his Crockett outfits to the Disney wardrobe department soon.

Gray to Give TV Report to People

Congressman Kenneth J. Gray (D), West Frankfort, today announced that he will give a report to the people of southern Illinois in two TV appearances: One, a 30-minute broadcast on Christmas Eve, Dec. 24, from 7 to 7:30 p. m., over WSLI-TV Channel 22, in Harrisburg.

The second will be a 15-minute telecast over Station KFVS, Cape Girardeau, Missouri on Wednesday, Dec. 27, at 5:45 to 6 p. m.

Gray says the report will concern the economic conditions of southern Illinois and termed the telecasts non political but very important. He urged all citizens of southern Illinois interested in the area's welfare to be viewing the programs.

The congressman said "The Prophets Quartet" will appear on the Harrisburg program with him.

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA) — Behind the Screen: Bing Crosby's dates with Columbia actress Kathryn Grant put them in the near steady twosome league these days, but when you toss the "Will it be a marriage?" question at him Bing says:

"I haven't even considered it." Admitting for the first time that he and Kathryn "go around a lot together," Bing denied to me that he flipped "I hope she gets a chance to wear it" when Kathryn reportedly was having a wedding gown fitted a few months ago.

"At least," he grinned, "I don't think I said that." In Hollywood for the first time since June to film an hour and a half CBS-TV musical version of the 1936 Broadway hit, "High Tor," the Groaner denied printed reports that he's no longer under contract to Paramount. He told me:

"I'm still there. Nothing is different except that I'll do an outside film in 1956. I've always had that right but up till now I always gave Paramount all my outside film rights."

Bing on son Gary's zooming career: "He's a born ham. He always had a flair for light comedy—even as a kid."

DEAN MARTIN'S PLAYING a waiting game, he says, in hopes of a reconciliation with wife Jean. "I've given up trying to rush her into saying okay," he told me between script huddles on "Pardners." Dean even skipped a pro-amateur golf tournament in Palm Springs because of Jean's presence there. But some newspaper accounts of the play said Dean and Mike Souchak won best-ball honors. Laughs Dean: "Best golf I ever played—and I wasn't there."

Gossip I previously reported that the James Masons are on the verge of separation or divorce is emphatically denied by the Masons. I've further investigated the facts, find I was in error and regret the publication of the statements.

IT'S DEFINITE that the character of George Gobel's mother will not return to his TV show. "We thought it was a nice idea," George told me, "but 50 per cent of the letters we received said it looked like she was picking on me. We didn't mean it that way at all but there was so much criticism we're dropping the whole idea."

George's reaction to the rough cut of his first movie, "The Birds and the Bees": "Darned if I know how it comes off. It's tough to be objective about yourself. I found myself worried about myself—I sat there mentally prompting myself in case I'd forget my lines."

This Is Hollywood, Mrs. Jones: Confession from Howard Shoup, who designed the glamour duds for Dorothy Malone and Joanne Dru in Liberace's "Sincerely Yours": "His clothes were so fancy we had to underplay the girls in simple wardrobes."

THE WITNET: Tony Martin is telling Hollywood's best Halloween trick-or-treat story. He took 4½-year-old Tony, Jr. on the rounds in Beverly Hills and in the lad's loot was a sardine sandwich!

Not in the Script: Jay C. Flippen, after dining in one of those restaurants where much of the food is served on flaming skewers: "It was food you could read by."

Court Upholds Amendment To School Code

SPRINGFIELD — The Illinois Supreme Court today upheld a 1955 amendment to the school code requiring that detached non-high school district territory remain liable for its share of the old district's debt.

The high court affirmed a Cook County Circuit Court decision against Pauline Prohm, who contested a $2,448,000 refunding bond issue of Non-High School District 216 in Cook County.

The territory in which she lived had been detached from the non-high school district in September, 1954. But the non-high school district had the $2,448,000 debt.

The following April the district authorized a refunding bond issue for the debt and authorized taxes to pay off the refunding bonds. The action was taken under House Bill 212 enacted by the 1955 Legislature.

The high court said the new legislation was passed to "avoid the imposition of the total burden of indebtedness of a non-high school district, as existing prior to disconnection, solely on the portions of the area of the district remaining after disconnection."

The refunding bond issue does not create additional debt, the court said, and overruled the appellant's argument that it is unconstitutional to levy a tax on the detached territory after the effective date of the detachment.

The plaintiff Prohm "is still obligated to pay her share of the indebtedness," the court said.

Three Children Killed, Six Persons Hurt In Explosion, Fire

DAVENPORT, Iowa — Three children were killed and six persons injured today when "all hell broke loose" in a fire and an explosion at a two-story frame house.

The names of the victims were not known immediately. Capt. Phil Axelrod of the Davenport fire department said he believed the dead children were from 5 to 12 years old.

Four other children, a "severely" cut woman and an elderly man were hospitalized, Axelrod said. Firemen didn't know how the fire started but witnesses said there was an explosion.

Dayton Wins Tourney; Rupp High in Praise

By United Press

The high-flying Dayton Flyers walked off with the University of Kentucky tournament championship today and left famed Kentucky Coach Adolph Rupp singing their praises as possible national basketball champions.

The Flyers walloped defending champion Kentucky, 89-74, in Wednesday night's final round at Lexington, Ky., with an amazing all-around display of court brilliance.

"This is the best-coached team we've ever seen in Lexington," Rupp declared after catching his breath.

"They are a tremendous team; they have everything," said Rupp. "They have the big boy (seven-foot Bill Uhl), the driver (Jim Paxson), the shooter (Arlen Bockhorn) and the player (Ray Dieringer). Particularly that big boy."

Dayton, which went into this important two-night tourney ranked fourth nationally, broke out of a 40-40 tie with a minute to go in the first half, seized a 45-40 half-time margin, and never was headed. It was Uhl, the Greenfield, Ohio, giant who scales 245 pounds who kept control when Kentucky challenged in the second half.

Dieringer topped the Dayton scorers with 25 points but game honors went to Jerry Bird of Kentucky with 34.

For Kentucky, beaten earlier this year by Temple, the defeat marked the first time Rupp's 26 years as coach that the Wildcats lost two home games in a single season. And Dayton's 89 points equalled the highest total ever posted against a Kentucky team; by CCNY in 1950. Dayton's record is now 8-0.

Earlier Wednesday night, Minnesota had surprised by trouncing Utah, 90-77, in the tourney's consolation game. The Utes, ranked second nationally but beaten by Dayton in the first round, never led.

North Carolina State, ranked No. 3 nationally, scored its most important win so far this year by whipping fifth-ranked Brigham Young, 95-81, at Raleigh, N. C., the first loss for BYU. State led at halftime, 45-39, and pulled away as Brigham Young went six straight minutes without a field goal.

Favored Wake Forest won the Carolan Tournament at Charlotte, N. C., beating Clemson in the final round, 98-79.

Eldorado Wins 4-Team Tourney At Metropolis

Eagles Defeat
Cairo, 72-56, in Championship Tilt

The Eldorado Eagles took championship honors in the four-team tourney played at Metropolis by defeating Cairo Wednesday night, 72-56. This marked the third time in the four-year history of the meet that Eldorado copped the title trophy.

In the consolation game Metropolis edged out Anna in a thriller, 68-66.

With Lindell Lovellette showing the way, both on offense and defense, Eldorado forged to the front at the start of the game and never headed, although the score was knotted 2-2 briefly in the first minute of play.

At the end of the first quarter the Eagles had winged to a 20-8 lead and at halftime was in command by a 42-22 count.

Adams Substitutes Freely

Lovellette, who picked up 32 points during the game on 12 fielders and eight free tosses, controlled the rebounding at both ends of the court to hamper Cairo's offensive game.

In the last half, with Cairo losing regularly via the foul route, Eldorado Coach Al Adams began to substitute freely and before the game ended every player had seen action and it was an all-reserve team in play during the final minutes.

Eldorado won at the foul line as each team counted the same number of field goals—20. The Eagles, continuing their low fouling defensive game, hit 32 free throws to only 16 by the losing Cairo team. Cairo was whistled for 28 fouls and Eldorado had only 16 called.

In the consolation game Metropolis and Anna battled from start to finish, with the score always close, but Anna led at the end of each of the first three periods—14-13, 29-27 and 47-46. Then Metropolis had a 22-point fourth quarter and held Anna to 19 to gain a thrilling 68-66 decision.

Play for Final Shot

The winning basket was in the air when the final horn sounded. With the score knotted at 66-66, Metropolis played for one final shot. Taylor, a 6-2 forward that had hit well all night, fired from about 15 feet out, the ball leaving his hands just before the horn sounded. The ball switched through the nets for victory 68-66. This gave Taylor 25 points for the night.

Following the championship game Maurice Clark, principal of the Metropolis high school, presented the trophy which was accepted for the winning Eldorado team by acting captain Ronnie Clark.

In conversation following the game Principal W. A. Knoop of Eldorado revealed that the tourney will not be resumed next year. The meet was set up on a four-year basis and this year completed the cycle.

Although it has been an artistic success, it hasn't proved to be a financial success. The four schools—Anna, Cairo, Eldorado and Metropolis—are too far apart, making considerable travel necessary and also there is no natural rivalry among the schools to attract large crowds.

Eldorado and other schools in this area are discussing the formation of a conference and if the plans are accomplished a conference tourney will fulfill Eldorado's needs for a holiday meet.

Scoring in the consolation game—Metropolis: Holtzer 18, Cummings 8, Mitchell 10, Taylor 25, Williams 5 and Humma 2; Anna: Pitts 15, White 6, Lewis 4, Corzine 36, Meyer 3, Lutz 2.

Shawneetown, Goreville Play for Title; Indians Beat Enfield, 97-38

Shawneetown and Goreville meet at 8:30 tonight for the championship of the ninth annual Equality Invitational Basketball tournament. Tonight's session will start at 7 o'clock with Enfield and Joppa playing for consolation honors and third place trophy.

The power-packed Shawneetown Indians, defending champions of the meet, are overwhelming favorites to repeat.

In gaining the championship round the Indians walloped Enfield 97-38. Goreville made its way into the finals with a 61-45 victory over Joppa.

The Indians used their entire tourney squad of ten players and everyone broke into the scoring column and five of the ten hit in double figures. Jack Nolen paced the attack with 25 markers.

Shawneetown was somewhat ragged as the game started and Enfield kept close throughout the first quarter, which ended 14-10 in favor of the Indians. From then on it was no contest with Shawneetown racking up 30 points in the second quarter, 25 in the third and 28 more in the last frame. Enfield, after counting 13 points in the second quarter was held to 15 in the final two frames.

Joppa started off in fine style against Goreville and led 14-9 at the quarter and 22-16 at the half. In the first quarter Mathis of Joppa scored 12 points, then cooled off and had only four more during the last three periods.

Goreville made a strong bid in the third quarter, coming up with 21 points and taking a 37-35 lead after three quarters were completed. The final frame was all Goreville as the Blackcats raced to 24 markers and held Joppa to 10.

remarked jocularly a few days before the varsity-freshman match: "Wilt could team with two co-eds and two Phi Beta Kappas and do pretty well."

The Stilt is most effective simply because of his physical qualities, says The Sporting News. He stands seven feet in his sweat socks. Over this frame are spread 225 snowy pounds. He is almost as agile as a five-eleven playmaker. He can jump 24 inches straight up. Against the varsity he was not bothered noticeably by the new 12-foot lane. His timing on the slightly off-target shots of his mates, in another year, will match that of Bill Russell, the fabulous human funnel of San Francisco. Spectators can actually see his pie-plate hands jam down inside the net.

Chamberlain likes to use the board to bank, unless he is at point blank, according to The Sporting News. His favorite shot is a jump-turn right-handed drive the middle of the lane, accomplished off an unusual left-to-right movement. He combines this well with a wedging drive to the goal, which is more dexterous than swift. This is his maneuver to gain position for the two-hand dunk, which is going to splinter some planks at both ends of the fieldhouse before the lad graduates.

The most ominous news to league rivals are these three facts: 1—He already carries a good idea of how to get the most from his size and agility and an aptitude to learn considerably more; 2—He has unusual stamina; 3—He is going to be a blue-chip competitor. He looked better against the varsity than in any workout.

Dr. Phog Allen told The Sporting News that "He easily has greater possibilities than any player we ever have had here. He has co-ordination, can run and can jump. He can do everything."

"A fan simply can't realize the effect of such an overpowering man. He just paralyzes smaller players. I thought he'd score 40 points against the varsity and he beat that estimate by two. He's even better than he looks out there. He's the best I ever saw. You can say his presence increases KU's basketball prospects by 50 per cent."

Warriors Extend Pro Cage Lead

By United Press

The Philadelphia Warriors opened up a 3 1-2 game lead in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Assn. today and are well on their way to compiling the circuit's highest won-and-lost percentage in five years.

The Warriors handed the Rochester Royals their fourth straight loss, 96-93, Wednesday night for their 15th victory in 21 games. Their 714 percentage is the highest in the league since the 1949-50 season when the Syracuse Nationals and Minneapolis Lakers both topped that figure.

Neil Johnston led the Warriors with 21 points and Paul Arizin added 20 more while Jack Coleman's 20 points were high for Rochester. The loss gave the Royals a 10-13 record and left them a game and a half behind first-place St. Louis in the Western Division of the circuit.

Zupke Recovering From Stroke

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Bob Zupke, famed former coach of Illinois football teams, is making a "dramatic" recovery from a stroke, his doctor said today.

Dr. Jack D. Hull said Zupke was feeling so well Wednesday he "begged" the doctor to tell him when he could return home.

The physician predicted the "Flying Dutchman" probably would be able to leave Cole Hospital by Christmas, but will continue under the care of nurses. He described Zupke's continued improvement as "excellent."

Santa Rides on Camel In 105 Degree Heat

ALICE SPRINGS, Australia — Santa Claus rode through the main streets of Alice Springs aboard a camel today in temperatures of 105 degrees.

The occasion was the annual Christmas parade for this central Australian town.

The weather bureau forecast fine pre-Christmas weather for most of Australia but said a "cold wave" would lower temperatures inland to 80 degrees—70 in the coastal areas. "Average" temperatures prevailed through most of Australia today with Marble Bar and Mundi Windi in West Australia recording temperatures of 114 and 112 degrees.

Surplus Pork to Be Allocated To Illinois Schools

SPRINGFIELD — More than a quarter million pounds of federal surplus pork products will be allocated to Illinois schools in January, Supt. of Public Instruction Vernon L. Nickell announced today.

The surplus pork is the first received from federal surplus stocks in two years, Nickell said. The U. S. Department of Agriculture told Nickell Illinois would be allotted 72,000 pounds of canned hams, 120,000 pounds of lunch meats, and 180,000 pounds of pork and gravy.

The pork products are not available in sufficient quantity to insure statewide delivery to schools, Nickell said. Hence, he said, the pork will be distributed only to private and public schools participating in the type "A" school lunch program.

As more allocations are made, deliveries will be rotated so that eventually all schools will receive some of the meat, Nickell said.

Big Three Resolution To Condemn Israel Attack on Syria Positions

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — The United States, Britain and France are preparing a strongly worded resolution condemning Israel for its attack last week on Syrian positions near the Sea of Galilee, informed sources said today.

The Western Big Three were expected to present the resolution at this afternoon's session of the Security Council when Syria announced it would demand economic sanctions against the Jewish state.

Boy, 11, Panics After Accidentally Shooting Sister

DENVER — Eleven-year-old Rover William Cook was so badly panicked after he shot his 2-year-old sister accidentally in her crib that he picked her up and put her under a Christmas tree, where she died while he ran for help.

Police found the body of Donna Mary Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cook, at the foot of the tree when they arrived at the Cook residence Wednesday.

Her brother had on a Davy Crockett shirt, to which he had pinned a junior police badge, when he shot Donna.

The Cooks were Christmas shopping when Rover took his father's small caliber pistol from a drawer while alone in the house with his baby sister. He said he didn't know it was loaded as he handled it near her crib.

After the gun went off, Rover said he lifted the dying baby from the crib, put her under the Christmas tree and ran to the home of an aunt.

ban Lake Forest, Ill., and William C. Boyden Jr., 19, Chicago.

A fourth Harvard student, James Gilligan, 19, Nebraska City, Neb., was riding in the back seat and suffered apparently minor injuries. However, an attending doctor said he was "a little worried about the boy" because he complained of a neck pain.

Home For Holidays

The four collegians had set out from Harvard Tuesday to drive home for the holidays. They kept going all night, taking turns at the wheel, and the younger Stevenson was driving when the gut-loaded car was turned into a mass of twisted metal on U. S. 20 10 miles northeast of Goshen.

Stevenson's car was going up a railroad overpass just as Gill, driving up the other side of the overpass, swung his truck into the oncoming lane of traffic.

Gill was attempting to pass a second truck, which was churning along at 20 miles per hour because of battery trouble. The two trucks were almost side by side when they met the oncoming Stevenson car at the top of the overpass.

Stevenson tried to find a path between the two trucks. But there wasn't room. His car brushed the side of the slow-moving truck and bounced head-on into the Gill truck, which was travelling at about 50 mph.

EISENHOWER SENDS "PRAYERFUL HOPES" TO STEVENSON FOR SON

CHICAGO — Adlai E. Stevenson's office reported today that President Eisenhower had sent his "prayerful hopes" for the speedy recovery of Stevenson's son, John Fell, who was injured in an auto-truck collision Wednesday.

Roger Tubby, Stevenson's press secretary, said the President sent the telegram from the White House to Stevenson, his Democratic opponent for the presidency in the 1952 election.

"Distressed to read on the ticker that your son John has been seriously injured," the telegram said. "I send you my most prayerful hopes that he will soon recover."

John Fell Stevenson was hurt in a collision that killed two companions near Goshen, Ind. The Stevenson youth was reported in good condition today.

Worker Burned In Explosion Closes Gas Line

STREATOR, Ill. — A duty-minded gas worker delayed treatment of painful burns to shut down a gas line after an explosion and fire ripped through a gas conversion house Wednesday.

Lawrence English, 31, of Ottawa, insisted that police drive him to a line valve location several blocks from the plant before taking him to the hospital.

After closing the valve at that site, English wanted to go to another valve location. But police hurried him to a hospital for treatment of serious burns.

Burned less seriously in the blast was Robert Woodward, 34, of Ottawa.

Firemen fought for two hours to bring the blaze under control. Officials said the blast apparently was caused by a leaky valve.

150th Anniversary of Foreign Missions in 1956

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass. — Haystack Monument will be the center of attention here next year. Erected in 1867, it commemorates the day in 1806 when five Williams College students dedicated their lives to "the service and well-being of people in foreign lands across the sea." This marked the beginning of the American Board of Foreign Missions program, which next year will observe its 150th anniversary.

On the monument is a replica of the haystack which on a rainy day in 1803 sheltered Samuel J. Mills, James Richards, Francis L. Robbins, Harvey Loomis and Byram Green as they consecrated themselves to the new work.

From this meeting of the five students, the American Board of Foreign Missions was founded four years later. Today it is the governing body of interdenominational work with hundreds of missionaries serving around the globe.
